EDWYNA FORSYTH IN FOURTH PLACE

TOPEKA, KANS. BOY WINS ORATORICAL CONTEST.

STAR PRAISES EDWYNA

Is Highly Complimented Upon Her Rendition of "Lincoln, and the Constitution" At K. C.

Miss Edwyna Forsyth ranked fourth with her oration "Lincoln and the Constitution" which she delivered in competition with five other contestants in the Kansas City Star's oratorical contest in the Ivanhoe Temple at Kansas City Saturday evening.

George C. Chumos of Topeka, Kan., was given first place and awarded the $750 prize. Kendrick W. Brown, a student of the military academy at Boonville, Mo., was graded second by the judges and given $250 along with the honors. Third place was won by Manford Ettinger of Kansas City, Kan.

Besides the 1,800 persons that listened to the orations at the Ivanhoe Temple in Kansas City, many throughout the Mid-West tuned in with the Star's radio station and listened in to their favorites. Many in Maryville adjusted their receiving sets to hear the contestants and the Democrat-Forum office was crowded Saturday until the time the decisions were announced a few minutes after 10 o' clock.

The Democrat-Forum was able to receive the complete program of orations broadcast through the co-operation of Harry C. Todd, manager of the Hanamo Telephone Co.

The orations were of twelve minutes duration. The speakers were the six high school students who delivered the best orations in the territory Missouri, Kansas, Southern Nebraska, Northern Arkansas and Western Missouri. The winner, George C. Chumos of Topeka goes on to the Midwestern Zone contest which includes sixteen states to deliver his oration next Friday evening, also to be given at the Ivanhoe Temple in Kansas City.

In order to gain a place in the contest Saturday night Miss Forsyth had to eliminate contestants from thirteen counties in Missouri, namely, Atchison, Worth, Mercer, Andrew, Davies, Buchanan, Caldwell, Platte, Ray, Nodaway, Harrison, Holt, DeKalb, Grundy, Clinton, Livingston, Clay and Carroll.

She spoke second on the program Saturday evening. She was the only girl among the contestants and also the youngest, being only 14 years old and a freshman at the Maryville High School.

The following stories regarding Miss Forsyth are taken from the city edition of yesterday's Kansas City Star:

Miss Forsyth Is Forceful.

The second speaker, Miss Edwyna Forsyth of Maryville, Mo., minded not that she was the sole representative of her sex on the program. Her delivery was forceful, her gestures becoming and expressive, her voice carried to the corners of the temple. She spoke and moved deliberately, perfectly at ease. She wore a smart dress of gray and old rose. Her hair was not bobbed but was worn in becoming rolls at the side. She was a favorite with the audience.

Miss Edwyna Forsyth received a chivalrous welcome as the only girl on the program. Her voice is well modulated and she has an admirable platform presence. Soon her seat became a flower booth as baskets and boquets bearing the cards of friends in Maryville arrived. She congratulated the winners at the close of the contest, but when she returned to her mother there were tears in her eyes.

HUMAN LIFE MOST IMPORTANT VALUE

THE REV. JOSEPH A. COOPER TELLS GRADUATES.

HUMAN WORTH GREATEST

History Of Nations, Creeds, Movements Or Achievements Is Simply History Of Folks.

Commencement Week Program.

Tonight—Banquet at Residence hall.

Thursday: Afternoon — Class day exercises—High School auditorium.

Evening—Class play, "Daddy Longlegs," College auditorium.

Friday evening, 8 o'clock—Commencement exercises, High School auditorium.

That the human being is the supreme value in life, and the greatest service is that which deals most with humanity—that was the message delivered by the Rev. Joseph A. Cooper to the graduates of the Maryville High School, last night.

The history of any nation, any creed any movement, any achievement, is simply the history of human beings, the Reverend Mr. Cooper told the graduates in his baccalaureate address at the Christian Church last night.

"God made this world simply for human beings," Mr. Cooper continued. "Progress can only be measured in terms of folks, and the test of what you do in life shall be whether or not you can keep clear in your mind the worth of a human being."

The only worth in the world is the worth that folks give, Mr. Cooper told his audience last night. A piece of property in New York is valuable only because of folks and the value they can give it, he added.

"The worth of an ideal or an idea is its value to folks," Mr. Cooper continued. "It comes out of the mind of a human being. The only material or Spiritual worth is human worth."

Mr. Cooper said that the greatest gift of religion to life is the emphasis upon the human being. It always has been true that the human soul is the supreme thing in life, he continued. The history of the Bible is simply a history of folks, he added.

"When Jesus came into the world, He wanted us to understand the human law, and He wanted to teach folks that the religious message is simply a human message.

"Our ills in Washington, Jefferson City and elsewhere come because men think that other values are greater than human values. Labor and other social troubles are caused by a lack of understanding of the supreme value of life.

"The test of life for you is going to be your idea of the supreme value of life, and success cannot come to you as long as you forget that the biggest thing in life is human beings. Give your life to the party, the church, the profession which has the most to do with folks. Service to humanity is the greatest of all service," Mr. Cooper concluded.

FANNING TODAY IN CRITICAL CONDITION

INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT YESTERDAY.

SKULL IS FRACTURED

Ford Roadster and Motor Wheel Are Demolished When They Collide On Hill East of City.

Orville Fanning, about 20 years of age who was injured in an automobile accident yesterday was reported to be in a critical condition this morning at the St. Francis Hospital. Last night his condition was so serious that it was doubtful whether he would survive.

He, with a party composed of Irvin Porter of Ravenwood, Alma Chapel daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chapel and Ethel Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murray, both High School girls, in a Ford roadster, collided head on with Everett Ditto, who was driving a motor bicycle, at 7 o'clock four miles east of Maryville, near the Oak Hill Church. In the mishap the Ditto boy, junior in High School, son of Seth Ditto, South Depot street, was thrown from his wheel and the Ford car rolled to the bottom of the hill.

The Murray and Chapel girls were slightly injured, being scratched somewhat. Porter escaped uninjured, but Fanning suffered injuries on the back of his head, his skull being fractured, and on his right side. Solon Clark who was passing, brought the injured man into Maryville.

The automobile was demolished, the wheels being broken, top and windshield torn off and steering wheel broken. The car turned over several times before coming to a stop at the foot of the hill. Ditto's motor wheel was badly damaged.

Fanning is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fanning, who live about nine miles southeast of Maryville. He has been working on a farm near Ravenwood recently.

It is reported that the Ford roadster, which was being driven by Porter, was traveling at a fast rate of speed going up the steep incline and that when the car reached the top of the hill Ditto appeared on his motor wheel, and both of the vehicles being in the center of the road, came together forcibly, the drivers of either vehicles unable to turn out in time to avoid a collision. Dr. Frank Wallis said this noon that Fanning had a small chance to make a recovery.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Orville Fanning had not regained consciousness it was announced at the St. Francis Hospital.

LOCAL HOSPITAL IS ON APPROVED LIST

ANNUAL VISITORS' DAY IS BEING OBSERVED.

SPECIAL MUSIC TODAY

Yehle Orchestra to Play This Afternoon and Tonight—First Section of Hospital Built in 1895.

A number of persons, among them former patients, are visiting St. Francis Hospital today, and becoming more familiar with Maryville's $230,000 "humanitarian" institution.

The Yehle orchestra will furnish special music this afternoon and tonight in honor of the "open house" at the hospital today.

Occupying a place on the approved list of hospitals in the United States, the local institution is the only one of its kind in the state north of the Missouri river gaining this distinction.

With the twenty-four sisters regularly at the hospital and seven or eight special nurses available for immediate service, the patient receives first class service during his stay in the hospital.

Class rooms for the nurses, two guest rooms, three special operating rooms, preparation and sterilizing rooms as well as an X-ray room, are all on the first floor of the hospital. A beautiful chapel room is also located on the main floor of the building.

On the second floor is a special Knights of Columbus room which was furnished by members of this organization. A room furnished by members of the local Elks Lodge is also on the second floor, as well as the rooms for the men patients of the institution. A sun parlor, facing south, provides an abundance of sunshine and fresh air for the convalescing patients.

A diet kitchen, also on the second floor, is provided for the preparation of special foods desired by the patients.

The women's apartment is on the third floor of the institution. A room for special nurses is located on this floor and there is a diet kitchen similar to the one on the second floor. A sun parlor is also available for the women patients of the institution.

The sisters' apartments are located just above the floor for the women patients.

The main kitchen, ice room and chemical laboratory are located in the basement of the building. There is also a small ice plant for the manufacture of ice when desired.

The first section of the hospital was built in 1895, the second in 1900, third in 1903, and the fourth in 1920. The total cost so far has been $233,206.93.

There are thirty-one patients now in the hospital.

MARTIN WILL NOT CONTINUE FLIGHT

COMPANIONS NOW 1,500 MILES BEYOND HIM.

WILL RETURN TO U. S.

Aviators Miraculously Escape Death After Crashing Against Mountain Peak in Fog.

Washington, May 12.—Major Frederick L. Martin, leader of the army around-the-world flight, who has turned up safely at a small trading post on the Alaskan peninsula after being lost twelve days, will not attempt to continue the flight, it was said here today.

Army officials said it would be impractical for Martin to attempt to rejoin his companions who trae now some 1,500 miles beyond him and awaiting favorable conditions to hop off for Japan. It would takes weeks for a new plane and outfit to reach Martin.

Orders will probably be dispatched to the flight commander and his assistant, Sgt. Alva Harvey, to return to the United States, leaving the other three planes to continue the journey under the command of Lieutenant Lowell Smith.

Cordova, Alaska, May 12.—The lost members of the world flights expedition are safe.

Miraculously escaping death after crashing against a mountain peak in a fog and completely wrecking their plane, Maj. Frederick Martin and his mechanic, Sergt. Alva L. Harvey, last night were at Port Meller, one hundred miles west of Chignik, Alaska, on the Alaska peninsula, according to a wireless message received here from there.

The two aviators, who escaped uninjured from their splintered plane on the mountainside, were forced down one hour and a half after leaving Chignik for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska Island shortly before noon April 30. They rescued a few of their records and food rations from the debris and started on a long tramp down the mountainside toward the North Pacific Ocean shore.

Reached A Trapper's Cabin.

The aviators owed their existence, the radiogram said to "concentrated food and nerve."

Exhausted, the flight commander and his mechanic finally reached a trapper's cabin at the southernmost point of Port Moller Bay on the morning of May 7. There they found food and regained sufficient strength to walk the beach three days before they were rescued.

PRESIDENT FACES WAR BY CONGRESS

BOTH HOUSES DRAFTING BATTLE PLANS TODAY.

DEFICIT THREATENED

Coolidge and Mellon are Told Finance Bills Will Drain Coffers of the Government.

Washington, May 12.—The federal treasury faces a deficit of more than 470 million dollars should the new tax bill and various other money bills become law, President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon were told today at a White House conference by Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee.

Aside from the revenue bills, the measures in question are those to which the President had voiced repeated opposition, holding them to be legislation entailing "unwaranted expenditures" of the public money.

Smoot cited the amendments to the present tax bill which would deprive the government of expected revenue from radio, tax exempt securities, telegraph and telephone calls, corporations, automobiles and accessories, and checks and drafts.

Washington, May 12.—Warring with the White House in connection with legislation affecting finances, Congress drafted battle plans today for enactment of its own policies, despite administration opposition.

Three great financial measures— the Bursum pension bill, the bonus, and the new tax reduction program, were enroute to the statute books in the face of White House disapproval.

The revolt started by a coalition of Democrats and "insurgent" Republicans was reported spreading to administration ranks for the avowed purpose of overriding the financial policies laid down by the President.

Maryville Mothers are Honored Yesterday

All Churches Report Large Crowds—Floral, Telephone and Telegraph Business Heavier Than Last.

Mothers' Day was appropriately observed in Maryville yesterday.

All churches report large crowds at the special services held in the morning.

Florists report a much better business than on last Mothers' Day. Flowers were shipped to Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, South Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Oklahoma and Wisconsin, and some shipments were wired to Canada.

Bright colors predominated in the flower sales this year, one dealer said this morning. Roses seemed to be second to carnations in popularity this year.

At the local office of the Southwestern Bell Teelphone Co. it was said that twelve or fifteen calls were received from distant states, beginning Saturday night. Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois were among the states represented in the calls received by the local office. A number of calls were sent by the local office also. Several states were represented in the outgoing calls. The telephone traffic was heavier this Mothers' Day than last, an official of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said this morning.

C. W. Payne, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co. announced today that the number of Mothers' Day messages sent out and received by the local office was double this year what it was in 1923. Yesterday Mr. Payne received fifteen Mothers' Day messages and sent out fourteen.

WHEAT ACREAGE HERE 28,040 ACRES

WHEAT IN THIS CTUNTY REPORTED AS 90 PER CENT.

SPRING SEEDING 82

Plowing Completed 83 Per Cent While Pasture Condition Is Reported As 81 Per Cent.

After figuring the loss from winter kill, the farmers of Nodaway County estimate their wheat acreage for 1924 harvest as 28,040 with May day condition as 90 per cent; rye, 96 per cent; hay, 83 per cent; plowing completed, 83 per cent; spring seeding done 82 per cent; pasture condition, 81 per cent; oats, 73 per cent, and apples, 98 per cent.

The condition of Missouri wheat at 79 per cent normal forecasts a yield of 11.61 bushels per acre, or 24,021,000 bushels, according to E. A. Logan, agricultural statistician of U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and Jewell Mayes, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture. The acreage for harvest now is 2,069,000 compared to 2,914,000 acres last year, when a total of 37,882,000 bushels was produced. Abandonment is 7 per cent, totaling 156,000 acres.

Missouri wheat shows the lowest condition and the largest abandonment of the seeded acreage since 1920, condition 79 per cent against 87 per cent last year. Wheat suffered severely throughout the eastern third from winter kill and in many fields is thin and spotted. Hill points are quite poor. Chinch bugs are numerous in many sections. The dry, cool weather of April has held back growth.

Rye condition is 87 per cent, compared to 91 per cent last year, indicates 12.18 bushels per acre on 22,000 acres, or 268,000 bushels against 325,000 last year.

Tame hay is 84 per cent compared to 86 per cent last year, and prairie hay 80 per cent. Meadows needed rain during April and May, and made small growth. Pastures at 80 per cent are not quite so good as the usual year, although fully carrying livestock.

Spring plowing is 65 per cent completed, spring sowing and planting 56 per cent done, with spring work slightly behind usual season. Supply of farm labor is 97 per cent of the demand. Some southern sections show labor supply about equal to present requirements.

Mortality of livestock during the past year has been about the same as usual for horses and mules, but higher for cattle and sheep and lambs from exposure. Deaths from disease of sheep and hogs were higher than last year. Present condition of livestock is about as usual, with horses throughout much of the state in thin flesh.

Farm work went forward rapidly during April, and 25 per cent of the corn crop was planted at end of the month. Fruit prospects are fair except for peaches, with apples somewhat under last year. Cherries, plums and strawberries more promising. From present prospects corn and cotton crops will be planted by the middle of May, and other farm work well up to its usual progress.

CANARIES ARE CUNNING WHEN THEY ARE LITTLE

Mrs. Workman has several cages of Canaries. The Canaries are very cunning when they are little. The mother bird sits on the nest to keep the small birds warm, for then they have not many feathers and they get cold. When they are hungry they open their small mouths and keep opening and shutting them until they get something to eat. Then they eat as if they never had anything to eat. It does not take little canaries long to grow. They make very pretty birds, and they sing very sweetly.

SPINNING WHEEL IS MADE CENTURY AGO

IS USED IN ASSEMBLY PROGRAM GIVEN BY SIX A.

MRS. M'DONALD OWNS IT

Made by Her Grandfather and Used by Her Grandmother in 1824—Witch's Pot Used in Program.

The spinning wheel belonging to Mrs. T. McDonald which was used in in the program April 23, 1924, given by the Six A grade is said to have quite a history.

It was made in 1824 by Paul Anthony, Mrs. McDonald's grandfather, and was used by her grandmother, and her mother until it went out of fashion. This year makes the hundredth anniversary with Mrs. McDonald's family.

When the spinning wheel was made Paul Anthony made a loom to go with it which Mrs. McDonald has in her possession also.

The witch's pot which was used in the program is owned by Mrs. J. S. Garten, but it has no definite history. It may be anywhere from twenty-five years to a century old. At any rate it was bought by Mrs. Garten in 1910 in Pickering.

This pot has been used in seven plays, as a witch's caldron, four times in the Washington Grade School.

MARYVILLE WINS CUPS DURING SPRING CONTESTS

LEAPS FROM AIRPLANE 2700 FEET IN AIR

A man leaped from an airplane 2,700 feet from the ground in a parachute Sunday afternoon May 4.

The man said the first time he attempted to descend in a parachute he had to have some one push him off of the plane wing, while in the parachute.

When falling in the parachute Sunday he tried to light in a pasture, but instead he lit in a cornfield nearby. He said he was dragged five feet after he touched the ground.

SEWING CONTEST BEING HELD AT LOCAL STORE

At Yehle's Dry Goods Store, Mr. McCall is putting on a sewing contest for the children.

They are giving away McCall patterns and the children are to see how neatly and how well they can put the pattern together and make a doll dress. The one that has the dress made the best gets first prize which is Betty McCall, a large doll. The second prize is a smaller doll, Virginia Lee, and the third is Gladys Olga.

Many children are taking the patterns to try to make dresses and are trying to receive a prize.

Viola Henderson.

THE COMMUNITY MOURNS.

The Washington School was cast into a cloud of gloom April 25. Every door and window was darkened and the children mourned. Their hearts were full of sorrow and their tears fell fast when they heard that Helen Lee had passed away.

Helen Lee had been in declining health for several months. She passed quietly away on the night of April 24.

A cloud of sorrow hovers over the 6B Grade. But more than all Miss Vella Booth mourns the loss of Helen Lee, her goldfish who has gone to the happy swimming pools where all good goldfish go.

Laura Jean Murdock.

SEWING IS EXHIBITED.

On April 28 and 29, the Price Furniture Store had on display the High School Vocational Home Economics work in sewing. It consisted of dresses and hats that the girls had made.

The Smith Hughes Department won many honors during the annual spring contests. They won several medals and a cup with this inscription:

The True Story of Woodrow Wilson

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

CHAPTER XVIII.

What Woodrow Wilson Thought of His Own Cabinet.

Mr. Wilson's occasional impatience with his Cabinet was not due to any lack of confidence in their respective judgments. He accepted advice wholeheartedly on questions arising in their own departments but there were not more than two or three men in the Cabinet whose opinions he valued on problems outside of those departments. It is unfortunately characteristic of the American system of government that Cabinet officers become absorbed in the details of their own departments and have neither the time nor the inclination to analyze other questions. Men like Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, however, who always studied the ebb and flow of the public opinion brought to the Cabinet table well defined opinions on questions relating to Mexico and foreign affairs. There were others who did likewise, but Mr. Wilson realized as he listened to the Cabinet discussion that none but the Secretary of State and himself was as familiar with the details of a foreign question. For this reason Mr. Wilson fell into the habit of deciding many questions of foreign policy in conference with the Secretary of State alone. He followed the same plan with the heads of other Departments. Frequently after a general Cabinet discussion he would have a series of engagements with individual cabinet members in which more important subjects were discussed than at the Cabinet meeting itself.

The President would occasionally bring to the Cabinet meeting a diplomatic note to a foreign government and ask for opinions but he did not enjoy the procedure. Too often hair-splitting arguments resulted and the clash of opinions left him in a quandary and made him wish that he had not broached the subject at all. On political questions he would sometimes ask the opinion of the members of the Cabinet because he thought their contacts and experiences in public life would enable them at least to express individual view-points.

The Cabinet did very little legislating. It was an advisory council not a board of directors. Mr. Wilson was quick to sense the general opinion at the table and tactfully terminated the discussions when he thought they had gone far enough to bring out the views of all.

Taken as a whole Mr. Wilson never shared the feeling of some critics that his Cabinet was a weak one. He conceded its inexperience. The Democratic party had not been in power for sixteen years and therefore had no opportunity to develop Cabinet timber. Mr. Wilson had in fact to reconstruct the Democratic party. He realized in later days that some of his Cabinet selections might have been better but as a historian he knew that Cabinets were never perfect and that his advisers were the best that a combination of politics and personal trust could bring together. For after all what counted more with Woodrow Wilson than anything else was personal loyalty. And in almost all cases that meant a mind which might suggest differences but which, in the last analysis, would go along enthusiastically with his.

Changes in the Wilson Cabinet during eight years of the Democratic administration were relatively few in number. When Mr. McReynolds was elevated to the Supreme Court of the United States, Colonel House was instrumental in the selection of Thomas W. Gregory of Texas as Attorney General to succeed him. Mr. Palmer who had been offered the Secretaryship of War in 1913 but who declined it because of his Quaker convictions against war, had not felt that he was properly recognized. Mr. Wilson was aware of this feeling and endeavored to correct it by appointing Mr. Palmer to be Alien Property Custodian in 1917 and later Attorney General when Mr. Gregory resigned.

Mr. Wilson was convinced that the Secretary of War ought to be a lawyer and this was one of the reasons why he asked Mr. Palmer to take the post. When Mr. Palmer declined, Mr. Wilson turned in perplexity to his private secretary, Mr. Tumulty, who recommended vice-chancellor Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey. Mr. Garrison's reputation on the bench was such as to assure absolutely clean administration of the War Department with its many judicial questions, for during peace times there are various building projects under the supervision of the War Department and other administrative tasks in which a legal mind is of inestimable value. And when Mr. Garrison resigned, the President chose another lawyer, Newton D. Baker, to become Secretary of War.

Mr. Garrison did not have a political mind. His experience on the bench had made him inflexible and logical. His deliberate opinion that a President should back up the recommendations of a Cabinet officer led to the subsequent break between the two men. Mr. Wilson was in accord with Mr. Garrison's recommendation as to the formation of a citizen army but when Mr. Garrison encountered the opposition of Mr. Hay to the Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, the President felt that he should not make an issue as between a member of his Cabinet and the men on Capitol Hill whose support was so essential to the passage of any kind of a program of national defense. Mr. Garrison held to the notion so prevalent in Europe that when a Cabinet officer does not command the support of the executive he should resign. It was a simple difference of opinion and one which but for practical politics would never have occurred for while the temperaments of the two men were opposed they had a great deal of respect for each other. Mr. Garrison was a man of dominating personality and it would have been interesting to see him at the head of the War Department in the days of the great war which came after his resignation.

The appointment of Robert Lansing to succeed William Jennings Bryan as Secretary of State was natural because Mr. Lansing as counsellor had prepared many memoranda which had been useful to Mr. Wilson in writing the notes to Germany and the allied governments on questions of neutrality. Undoubtedly Mr. Lansing is a great international lawyer and Mr. Wilson recognized his ability, but the President became obsessed with the idea that Mr. Lansing was too fond of precedents and convention and that he was not elastic on questions of policy. Mr. Lansing's difficulties with Mr. Wilson were to a large extent the same kind that John Bassett Moore had with William Jennings Bryan. The legal mind came in conflict with the political mind. Policy in foreign affairs can not always be developed by the same empiricism or intuition that characterizes decisions on domestic questions, particularly party politics. International relations especially to the minds which have been trained to think in terms of sovereign power and tradition, are not as easily resolved by the rules of expediency as are so many domestic questions.

When Mr. Lansing resigned, President Wilson was in ill health and unable to give as much time and thought to the selection of a Secretary of State as he would have given in earlier days. His first impulse was to transfer Newton D. Baker from the portfolio of Secretary of War and have Bainbridge Colby succeed Mr. Baker. The friends of Frank L. Polk, Undersecretary of State, were active in his behalf and it looked for a time as if Mr. Wilson might promote Mr. Polk and make no change in the War Department. Mr. Colby was not a Democrat but had been affiliated with the Progressive Republican party and had made the speech nominating Theodore Roosevelt in the Bull Moose Convention of 1912. Mr. Wilson cherished the hope that the nomination of Mr. Colby to the Cabinet would bring to his support the liberals and progressives who had been inclined to stray from him in his last administration.

An under-current of gossip to the effect that Secretary Baker had concurred in the view of Secretary Lansing with respect to the supposed disqualification of President Wilson to continue in office because of his physical disability in 1919 was brought to Mr. Wilson's attention when he considered the possible appointment of Newton D. Baker as Secretary of State. Here again Mr. Wilson applied the acid test of loyalty and asked his advisers whether there was truth in the current reports concerning Mr. Baker's supposed disaffection. President Wilson was assured to the contrary but for reasons best known to himself he did not transfer Mr. Baker to the head of the Department of State. His admiration for Newton D. Baker was by no means diminished, in fact their warm friendship continued long after Mr. Wilson left the White House.

(Tomorrow's chapter will deal with the selection of Joseph P. Tumulty to be his private secretary).

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Guthrie Sustains a Dislocated Shoulder

Glen Guthrie, living about three miles northwest of Maryville, sustained a dislocated shoulder this morning, when a lister that he was driving was suddenly jerked by the horses and hit him violently. Mr. Guthrie had hitched up a horse to the lister that had not been used much this spring, the animal becoming frightened and started to run away with the corn planter. He was brought to Maryville and taken to the hospital to have his shoulder set in place.

Two mules and one horse were hitched to the walking lister and when the animals started to run it is thought that the handle of the machine struck Mr. Guthrie on the left shoulder and his arm thrown out of the socket bone. The accident occurred at 8:30 o'clock this morning. When he was taken to the hospital he underwent an X-ray examination and it was found that no bones were broken.

When the horses ran away nothing was damaged. Mrs. Guthrie and John Griffey were near when the accident happened.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Louis Diss of Des Moines, Ia., drove to Maryville yesterday for a short visit with Mr. Diss' mother, Mrs. J. S. Diss, who is ill at St. Francis hospital.

Save The Moisture For the Growing Crops

Dunham and Western Culti-Packers crush the clods, pack loose soil, flatten out air spaces, reduce soil blowing, prevent winter killing, cultivate wheat, alfalfa and other crops. They repay their cost in the seed they will save if used immediately after the grain drill or seeder. Every farmer should have one.
